

What happened to the first amendment stating free speech? XM Radio is similar to the days when MTV broke out - offering music videos on cable, being able to do what regular tv stations couldn't. It's just competition - you either can afford cable or you can't. It's going to be the same with XM Radio - the shock jocks need a home, too - the public demands it and is willing to pay extra for it. Not only am I an XM Radio customer, I'm a stock holder, too. It's the wave of the future - it's ridiculous to try to put restraints on something the public is asking for and needs.
